EFFORT TO SAVE SOULS. Converts Invited to Sign Pledges to Be Christians Instead of Stepping Up to the Penitent Bench in the Old Style Work to Go On Nightly for Two Weeks.

A religious revival, to be carried on during the next two weeks by the joint efforts of five of the West Side churches, was begun last night in the Thirty-fourth Street Reformed Church near Eighth avenue. The other four churches interested in the movement are the North Presbyterian Church, at Ninth avenue and Thirty-first street, of which the Rev. F. B. Rossiter is the pastor; the Bethany Congregaional Church, at Tenth avenue and Thirtyfourth street, the Rev. H. N. Prett. pastor; the United Presbyterian Church, at Thirty-fourth street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues, the Rev. T. W. Anderson, pastor; and the Westminster Presbyterian Church, in West Twentythird street, the Rev. R. F. Sample, pastor. All of the meetings are to be held in the Thirtyfourth Street Reformed Church and are to be led by the Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman of the Fourth Presbyterian Church on West End Gospel hymns were sung last night at the opening meeting by a large trained chorus made up from the choirs of the five churches made up from the choirs of the five churches and by a congregation large-enough comfortably to fill the church. In every fourth pew sat a young woman member of Dr. Elliott's church provided with cards on which was insertbed: "I have an honest desire to henceforth live a Christian life. I ask your prayers and am willing to follow any light God may give me." Below this was a space for the name and address of any who might wish to sign. The cards, with the lead rencils, were passed about through the audience by the young women, this method of learning the presence and identity of would-be converts being adopted as a substitute for the old-fashioned method of urging them to come forward to the pulpit platform.

"Not all the men in this world could make me believe that the Bible is not the word of God. The one thing that makes me sceptical is the spectacle of a man who believes in God but never tells his children and his keighbors of his belief, nor tries to make them share it. In the name of God I call you to work as a Christian, to make it well with thy child and thy neighbors as it is well with they child and thy neighbors as it is well with they child and thy neighbors as it is well with they."

After his address Mr. Chapman asked everybedy to sign the cards. In addition to that he asked all who wished to be Christians to raise their hands and then he waited five minutes. The congregation was made up principally of young women. About a score raised their hands. Most of the others looked nervous and appeared to be trying hard to seem at ease and at the same time wait for the next hymn or prayer without raising their hands. After the revival meeting in the church there was a short service of prayer, song and testimony in the value.

PROOKLYN SHOPPERS EXHORTED. day Meeting-Last Night's Service.

The noonday service, one of the special features of the religious revival in progress in the borough of Brooklyn, was continued yesterday in the hall of the Central Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association in Fulton street. The audience, which was not quite so large as on the opening day, was composed mainly of shoppers and employees from the hig stores in the neighborhood. More than a core of ministers were present. The service began with the singing of "At eading. Several written requests for prayer were read by the Rev. Dr. Pardington, the chairman. The kev. Dr. Lew G. Broughton, the Georgia evangelist, made the principal address, which was based on the text, "Verily, I say unto you, whoseever shall not receive the the Kingdom of God as a little child, he shall ind chiracteristics as a fixed chiral he shall not enter therein.

"Just one thing," he said, "standing between us and Jesus. Christ will separate us from Him on that day of final account. However moral you may be, yet without Jesus Christ you will be lost. No man has ever been or will moral you will be lost. No man has ever been or will be saved by means of his moral character. It is absolutely worthless, so far as salvation is concerned, with God. You may lead a perfect life for 3:0 years and if you do not take the one essential step you are lost to endless hell. I believe in hell and I believe that is where the man goes who does not take this final step of confessing Christ—endless hell. I adhere to the doctrine of original sin, and a man who attake this doctrine is either ignorant of the Scriptures or mendaciously trying to misrepresent them. The trouble is that our preachers have muddled the plan of salvation by theological teachings, so that the people don't know where they stand."

When Dr. Broughton asked those who had not been saved but wanted to surrender to Jesus to stand up more than a score of persons mose, including a gray-haired woman and a present the salvation of the save and the salvation of the save including a gray-haired woman and a stand up the save appears of the save was a source of the save and the Jesus to stand up more than a score of persons arose, including a gray-haired woman and a boy of fifteen. There was a chorus of "Amen" and sounds of sobbing all over the hall and then taking outhle watch, Dr. Broughton said: "God bless you! God bless you! The tick of this watch may be the tick of eternity for you." There was a stirring revival service last gight in the Greene Avenue Baptist Church. Every seat was occupied and a dozen ministers were present. The liev. Dr. Broughton spoke
